Ann Arbor Protest Brings 182 Arrests

Welfare Mothers Demand More Aid

ANN ARBOR (AP) — About 182 demonstrators, most of them University of Michigan students, were arrested Friday after continuing a demonstration in support of demands by area welfare mothers for more money.

The protesters were charged with trespassing in the Washtenaw County Building. They were arraigned in Ann Arbor Municipal Court and were released under $50 bonds to appear for court hearings next Tuesday.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey had warned the group to leave the County Building by 5:30 p.m. or face arrest.

ARREST ORDERLY
Ann Arbor police and county deputies in fatigues blocked off the downtown area to traffic, and then arrests began.

Removal of the demonstrators into waiting buses was orderly, although at one point several demonstrators collided in a group after being hustled from the building faster than they could squeeze into the buses.

County officials failed to break a deadlock in talks with welfare mothers who rejected a new offer. The county suggested a maximum of $80 for school clothes for each of the 1,200 school-age children in the county who qualify for aid to dependent children.

Mrs. Shirley Haywood, a leader of the women's group, refused to ask students to withdraw their demonstration support. Mrs. Haywood, chairman of the Ypsilanti chapter of the National Welfare Rights organization said the group wanted payments to be based on need without an individual maximum.

Mrs. Haywood said she would ask Gov. Romney to intervene. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said on Thursday that inadequate school clothing entitled ADC children to an emergency allowance under the Michigan Social Services Appropriation Act.

Observers said the vicinity of the county building turned into a military staging area before Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies started making the arrests.

Sheriff's deputies from the counties of Wayne, Monroe, Oakland, Jackson and Livingston were on hand, in addition to about 100 State Police kept outside the city. A detachment of the Oakland County Tactical Mobile Unit, dressed in light blue fatigues with visored helmets and accompanied by 10 police dogs, was used to hold back a crowd that varied from several thousand to about 500 persons at different times.

Father Of Five Killed By Shotgun

GRAND JUNCTION — A Grand Junction father of five died at 9:45 a.m. this morning at South Haven Community hospital, after being shot in the face earlier this morning with a shotgun, South Haven state police said.

Officers said Lee Roy Back, 42, was hit in the face with a blast from a 410 shotgun at his home around 5:30 a.m.

Members of the family were being questioned today about the incident and further details were being withheld at this time. Police added no arrests were made this morning.

Coast Guard Warnings Are Ignored

Anglers Defy 20-Foot Seas At Frankfort

FRANKFORT (AP) — Two persons were presumed drowned in 20-foot seas in Lake Michigan Friday after gale-force wind threatened the lives of scores of Coho salmon fishermen.

Vernon Watley, 36, of Chicago, was washed overboard from a cruiser on which he was riding with three other persons near Ludington, officials said.

The Coast Guard said it spotted an overturned boat near Frankfort off the northwestern Lower Michigan coast. Later, a Coast Guard spokesman said, officials were notified the fisherman using the boat had not returned from his trip into the turbulent lake.

The occupant of the boat was not immediately identified by the Coast Guard.

Several other boats were reported to have capsized under the force of winds gusting to 40 knots. Three persons swam to the beach near Frankfort, after their open boat cracked in two and swamped, the Coast Guard said.

Two Coast Guard helicopters equipped with bull horns and a State Conservation Department official flew over the lake to warn the fishermen.

The Coast Guard also put two rough-water boats into the warning effort, towing one disabled fishing craft to refuge and alerting others.

WARNINGS IGNORED
But the Coast Guard said a number of fishermen ignored pleas to head for shore.

"There's always a few that want to catch the fish regardless," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Last year, seven fishermen drowned when a storm caught hundreds of Coho salmon fishermen on the lake.

The lure of the Coho has caused a fishing and tourist boom along the northwestern Michigan coast.

Small craft warnings were posted when many of the fishermen headed into the lake Friday, the Coast Guard said.

At the time, waves were five feet high, "and that's even too much," the spokesman said.

Carry Unloaded Rifles At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — About 15 members of the Black Panthers organization, 8 to 10 of them with unloaded rifles slung over their shoulders, entered the 2,000-student Rainier Beach Junior-Senior High School and asked Principal Donald S. Means for assurances their "black brethren" were not being mistreated.

"I told them they had not been mistreated and are not being mistreated," Means said. He said he was not threatened in any way. The Panthers left without incident when the police arrived.

School officials said the confrontation Friday stemmed from a fist fight between a white student and a Negro student earlier in the week, resulting in suspension of the white boy.

The fight attracted a crowd of about 250 onlookers and officials said it led to false rumors that the large crowd of white students had beat about a dozen Negroes.

About five per cent of the school's enrollment is Negro.

She'll Be Wed In A Spell

Use Of Hypnotism Okayed By Church Officials

DETROIT (AP) — The "tearless" marriage of school teacher Diane Podkawa to nightclub executive Thomas Lee Schoenith was scheduled to go on today after an issue over hypnotism was clarified with Roman Catholic officials.

The 24-year-old brunette kept a scheduled visit with hypnotist Ron Hutchings Friday night to get a post-hypnotic suggestion to keep the tears from cascading during the ceremony.

Miss Podkawa, who says she breaks out in uncontrollable sobs at joyous or sad events, said the hypnosis would not keep her from being "able to feel emotional during the wedding."

FLOOD OF ADVICE
First reports of her plans brought more than 200 letters and telegrams and a flood of calls about hypnotism, said Schoenith.

He is executive vice president of the Roostertail Restaurant, a nightclub overlooking the Detroit River.

Some of the name personalities who have performed there plan to attend the wedding.

About the hypnotism angle, Schoenith said "Most people didn't understand."

She agreed, noting she would not be actually hypnotized during the marriage ceremony at Our Lady Queen of Heaven Chapel.

The Very Rev. Albert G. Allen, head of the Detroit archdiocesan marriage tribunal, said there was nothing wrong with the post-hypnotic suggestion on crying, but added that if she were actually under a hypnotic trance at the time of the wedding, the ceremony would not be approved.

HYPNOTIZED BEFORE
In the past, she was hypnotized to perform flawlessly in a local production of the "Unsinkable Molly Brown," and to lose between five and 10 pounds by avoiding ice cream and other sweets. She teaches second grade in suburban Warren.

Rick Perry, a vice president of the Roostertail, said he expected singers Frank Fontaine, Peggy Lee, Tony Bennett, the Supremes, and perhaps Bobby Darin at the wedding or reception.

He said he asked Detroit Tiger pitcher Denny McLain and Bill Munson, world champion hydroplane driver, to play the organ at the wedding.

Terrorist Attacks Raise Fears

Saigon Braces For Enemy's New Onslaught

SAIGON (AP) — Seven terrorist attacks in Saigon within 24 hours raised fears today that the enemy command is beginning a new wave of terrorism.

American servicemen were advised to stay off the streets during the night and to carry their weapons with them at all times. But U.S. officers said they did not foresee an imminent attack on Saigon.

Police said the terrorists were trying to frighten their victims into turning against the South Vietnamese government.

Intelligence reports have said that a terror campaign would be a prelude to and a key part of any major attack on Saigon, which presumably remains the ultimate goal of any third offensive by the enemy.

BOMB SCHOOL YARD

In the most serious of the new incidents, a bomb exploded in an unoccupied office in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon, injuring a woman and two schoolchildren in a schoolyard next door.

Damage to the building was light.

The office belonged to the Association of Chinese Regional Administrative Groups, a group of Vietnamese civic leaders of Chinese origin which backs and is supported by the government.

The office is often used for meetings of civil defense groups.

The bombing took place only three blocks from a government information office and two other buildings that were wrecked by an explosion Friday night that killed nine persons and wounded 55. The dead included four children. All the victims were Vietnamese.

Also on Friday night, a Vietnamese ward chief was shot and critically wounded in the dock area of Saigon by a woman about 20, police said. She escaped.

Police said a power transformer station was slightly damaged Friday afternoon when a bomb exploded next to it.

The other incidents involved grenades tossed at ward chiefs and government facilities with only a few casualties and minor damage reported. One terrorist tried to blow up a U.S. Navy truck with a booby trap, but it was discovered in time and defused.

ROCKET ATTACK

In addition, an enemy 100-pound rocket slammed into the southern edge of Saigon around midnight, killing one Vietnamese woman and wounding 11 other persons, including eight children.

JOHNNY CARSON

Won't Take Back Seat To Football

Johnny Carson To Walk Off Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson says he will not appear on the "Tonight" show on Monday because the National Broadcasting Co. is using some of his regular 90-minute TV time to televise a professional football game.

Carson said in a statement Friday: "My contract with NBC says that my show will begin at 11:30 p.m. and end at 1 a.m."

"Any changes are subject to mutual agreement and they are supposed to notify me of any proposed changes. But just this week I found out that somebody at NBC sold a football game for Monday night and they want me to cut down on my show. I won't do the show any night any more unless it starts at 11:30."

NBC declined comment on Carson's statement.

Carson usually tapes his show from 6:30 p.m. to 8 o'clock. For Monday's show, the network asked him to tape the 90 minutes and said it would use as much as it could. But Carson declined.

The American Football League telecast, between the Houston Oilers and the Kansas City Chiefs, will start at 9 p.m. EDT. The game is expected to run between 2½ and 3 hours and will be followed by a half-hour of news. This means Carson's show could be delayed by as much as an hour.

A similar problem arose with the show Friday night because of a football game between the San Diego Chargers and the Cincinnati Bengals, Carson said, but the network agreed to eliminate a postgame show so the "Tonight" program could start on time.

Carson also said: "It's not fair to treat my show like a late-night filler. This show is about the biggest moneymaker that NBC has, grossing about $27 million or $28 million a

One Americanism
That Doesn't Change

Our abridged Dictionary of American History is a handy reference work.

It starts with Abbe (Cleveland was his first name) who was the first weather forecaster and concludes the Zimmerman Note, whose disclosure had much to do with convincing Woodrow Wilson it was time for Uncle Sam to belt the Kaiser in the chops.

It omits, however, any disclosure on the Miss America pageant, the first and most durable of all U.S. beauty contests.

A group of Atlantic City hotel and resort operators dreamed up the pageant in the early 1920s as a means of pepping up their business following the usual Labor Day letdown.

Not all of the then 48 states sent a representative, but the idea of ogling a shapely gal in a one-piece swimming suit caught on immediately. The Miss America production spawned a host of competing ventures in later years. Miss Universe, Miss World and Miss Teen Age America are just a few to capitalize on the theme of sex stopping short of prurience.

In recent years the spectacle's

Spreading
Air Peaks

In the continuing air congestion over metropolitan airports, the cry most frequently raised is that some agency, the FAA, CAB or other federal authority, should order rescheduling to spread out the peaks and fill in the valleys.

The first to back off were the FAA and CAB, the two agencies most directly concerned with regulating commercial flights. The reason for the unusual reversal of bureaucratic form was the sheer complexity of scheduling. For example:

Servicing the New York City area alone requires 2,000 daily schedules involving 15 airlines serving 100,000 persons traveling to 200 points, including 70 foreign countries. Excluding shuttle flights, each of these aircraft schedules is part of a jigsaw of hundreds of others, often with close-order connections.

Each schedule commits a $6-million airplane, seven flight crew members, airport accommodations and the ground crews whose job it is to keep the planes in safe operating condition.

Little wonder, then, the government agencies were pleased to pass the slide rules and computers back to the airlines with orders to work out some improvements. Naturally, the airlines will be inclined to consider the economic return on their investment in equipment along with meeting the demands of their customers in a safe and convenient way.

Needed is a clearinghouse set up by the airlines which can fairly apportion the more popular arrival and departure times. The CAB might also retain its authority to order changes when the danger of overcrowding appears.

Since general aviation fills as much as 25 percent of the workable air space around the major metropolitan airports during peak hours, attention could also be directed to diverting the smaller aircraft to fringe airports.

There's no longer much doubt, the convenience of a few may have to be sacrificed to the safe and serviceable operation of the major airlines which carry anywhere from 120 to 185 passengers per flight.

sponsors have tried to dignify the pageant a bit.

The girls still show off in a swimming suit, but in theory at least they must possess more than a good shape. Talent, congeniality, personality, etc., etc., are weighted into the judging. B and B in this instance stands not for brandy and benedictines, but beauty and brains.

The pageant began to sag a bit following World War II. It appeared somewhat pallid to several million discharged servicemen who were used to snappier stuff by way of barracks pin-up shots and USO shows.

Coming to the rescue was a musical jackpot in the form of Bernie Wayne and Bert Parks.

Wayne composed a theme song for the pageant, "There She Is, Miss America," in 1955.

Bert Parks, owning probably the widest mouth in the entertainment world, sang it as part of his master of ceremony's role. TV also helped out.

Nobody except a few songwriters knows Wayne from a bale of hay, but Parks literally jumps out of the boob tube into the family room.

Consequently this trio of music, personality and electronics has worked wonders in dramatizing the ordinary into the spectacular.

The '68 show which is on TV tonight experienced the jitters a few months ago.

Wayne threatened to withhold his copyrighted song unless the Miss America state managers paid him a larger royalty.

This grubby argument so deepened that arrangements were finally made to fling a substitute lyric at the audience.

"There She Is," though, has a loyal following and so many people wrote complaining letters to the festival that its directors recanted two days ago.

Bert will sing "There She Is" tonight.

What will happen from another front is not certain at this writing.

A group of liberal females, self described as being in their 20s and 30s and billed as the Women's Liberation Movement, threatens a unique type of picketing as the final round gets under way this evening.

They plan to burn their brassieres, corsets, garter belts, false eye lashes and other accoutrements designed to keep the female form divine.

Unfortunately, from the interested male's standpoint this shedding will not be done in public. The girls have rented an incineration space for that purpose.

They will, however, open to the public their crowning of a sheep as their Miss America.

The symbolism, says the girls, is to drive home the point that american women should exercise their brains more fully and refuse to be pawns in a man's conception of what the ideal woman should be.

Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton and Carrie Nation, by their own methods, fostered the germ of the idea some generations ago by demonstrating women can perform something other than housework.

Women's Liberation simply puts a different twist on it.

"Think, don't flutter," is their keynote.

Still, the Liberators cling to one feminine trait.

Men can help, they advertise, by contributing money to their cause.

This, as most married males will note, has a familiar ring.

The network carrying tonight's pageant, has not indicated if it will give the Liberators equal coverage with the pageant.

It should.

Otherwise, the girls will be running to the FCC claiming discrimination.

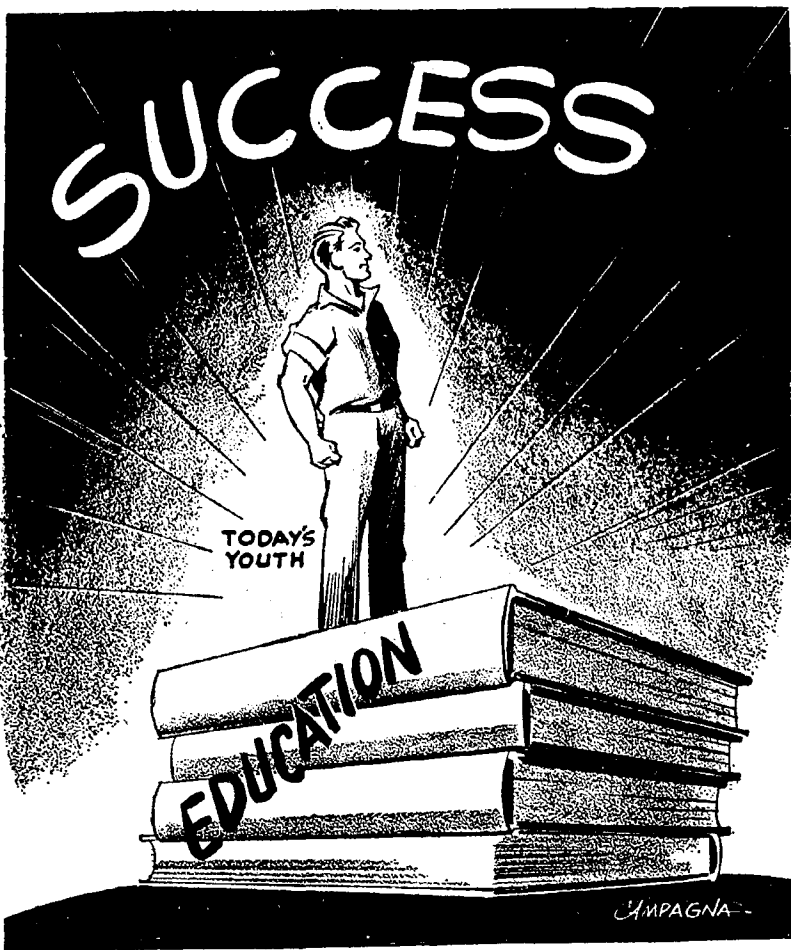

After all, Miss America is supposed to exalt womankind by one means.

The Liberators claim a different method to accomplish the same result.

This supposedly establishes the clash of ideology which under the FCC's fairness doctrine is to be broadcast from all sides.

Soviet engineers plan to build cities with interconnected buildings so that residents in the colder regions need never be exposed to winter's bite, the National Geographic says.

ACTION, NOT STATISTICS

The Automobile Club of Michigan may request the National safety Council to stop predicting anticipated traffic deaths before holiday periods and counting them afterwards, but long experience with the parent council has taught the driving public that suggestions on what to do about our traffic problem when brought to the attention of that august body has little if any effect upon the Council. Both The Herald-Press and News-Palladium have given this (AP) item headline coverage. The short trip driver is the most dangerous and those who have hitch-hiked many thousands of miles can testify to this as an authentic truth.

It is more important that the Council pay greater attention to the daily toll. In previous articles the writer has brought many safety issues to the attention of the public through these Letters to the Editors.

In one particular instance the so called deadly two lane back road was referred to as a traffic and safety menace in that most are no speed limit highways and tempt thousands to ignore safety for speed.

I wrote to the National Safety Council as a citizen, voicing my opinion and suggesting a uniform speed limit of 50 MPH on all secondary two lane roads. I also urged the total abolishment of the two-way stop and the blinker signal in all states for in both instances they invite disaster through speed and an abuse of the right-of-way privilege.

I again advise the Council, through this paper to urge legislation in all states to make every important intersection a 4-way stop, either by light or by sign. If the travelling public will not use sense in its driving habits, then we should make them change their attitude by either controlling their indifference or impounding their vehicles or cancelling out their insurance.

Boiled down we will find that regardless of all the safety or all the books, pamphlets, devices affixed to any vehicle, or all the books, pamphlets, warnings and other assumed deterrents we must deal directly with the one source and that is the driver alone for he can, by his attitude also save lives or take them.

As to the drunken driver he is no problem for we can stop him from driving at all, but the other fellow who takes his own ego and infallibility for granted is the one who we must declare open warfare against due to his general invisibility.

When he is trapped and the evidence points to his irresponsibility and don't care attitude, then we will make some progress, but to the estimating of highway deaths by Fred Rehm, Michigan's Auto Club Manager, the N.S.C. can do nothing about it unless it pushes for national and state legislation to outlaw high speeds on the secondary roads, uniform speed limits all over America on such roads and the nationwide adoption and installation of four ways stops that show the least possibility of a traffic accident.

Whether the death is in Vermont, Arizona, Dakota or Virginia, the fact remains the same. Uniform traffic laws are badly needed, but try and tell the Council that.

Counting the dead is easy. It requires less energy. While the wheels are rolling the Council's counting.

Doesn't make sense.

.. And Speaking
Of Your Health

Monkeys may yet give us the greatest gift of health. A chimpanzee seems to have acquired a most unusual disease called pinta. This strange condition, sometimes called spotted sickness, Azal and carate, is caused by a germ closely related to the one that causes syphilis in humans.

It seems that the chimpanzee who is being studied by a team of doctors in the United States Public Health Service developed pinta in Latin America, having been infected by the germ treponema carateum. This germ is closely related to the treponema pallidum which causes syphilis in the human.

It is now believed that if a human is infected with pinta, he may develop immunity to syphilis. Dr. William J. Brown and his colleagues believe that there is a possibility that this new finding may be the beginning of the long awaited hope for a vaccine against syphilis.

Syphilis is and has always been one of the great scourges of mankind. There have been long periods where this disease has been kept to a minimum by intensive health campaigns by public educators and health officials.

With the advent of the discovery of penicillin, it was hoped that this was the answer to one of the great threats to man's health. In a measure, it was and still is an effective weapon against this disease.

Unfortunately, carelessness and sex promiscuity have reached such a high peak that, at the present time, venereal disease is almost in epidemic form all over the world. The hopeful possibility that a protective vaccine against syphilis is on the horizon is indeed of great significance. The treatment of severe burns is constantly being expanded in an effort to save the lives of the high percentage that fail to survive. Severe burns wreak havoc on victims because of a total imbalance of the fluids, the endocrine system's alteration and the reversal of many normal body functions.

The toxic effects of burns are so great that physicians in every specialty coordinate their efforts to save these lives.

Remarkably ingenious suspension beds, room free from germs and antibiotics have all contributed to keeping these patients alive long enough for the more energetic survival techniques.

Dr. Charles L. Fox, of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, has, with his colleagues, created a new drug which seems to have great advantage over those previously in use. Dr. Fox has taken two standard drugs, silver nitrate and one of the sulfa compounds, and combined them so that now the advantages of both become evident in fighting infection after burns.

The drug has been used in a fairly large number of patients in Vietnam and in a similar group of patients in the United States. The combined study seems to show that the growth of very dangerous germs has definitely been prevented, despite rather unsanitary conditions at the battlefield.

When the drug has been extensively used, it will be given out for general consumption to the civilian population.

Opening lead — ace of hearts. Venezuela, which finished eleventh in the recent World Bridge Olympiad, lost its match with Canada, which finished third, by a score of 16 victory points to 4.

But the South Americans could have tied the match had their declarer not made a careless error on the accompanying hand and gone down one instead of making the contract. In that case, the final score would have been a 10-10 tie.

The Canadian North-South pair at the first table staggered into game on the bidding shown. The Venezuelan east could have let the bidding die at two spades, and furthermore made a doubtful double of four spades when North bid the game. As a result of these maneuvers by East, the Canadians came home with a lucky score of 790 points.

At the second table, the Venezuelan North-South pair, Rossignol and Berah, conducted a much more reasonable auction and easily got to game on this sequence:

South West North East
Pass Pass 1♦ 2♦
3♠ Pass 4♦

Berah evaluated his hand more accurately after his partner had opened with a diamond and East had overcalled to clubs. With a singleton in the opponent's suit and a diamond fit with partner, his jump to three spades gave a truer picture of his hand.

West (Sheardown) led the nine of clubs and Berah made the fatal error of ducking in dummy. East (Elliott) played the four of the nine, strongly suggesting that West shift to another suit, and it was not difficult for West to switch to a low diamond.

Declarer properly played low from dummy, but the fat was already in the fire. Elliott ruffed, returned a heart to Sheardown's ace, and another diamond lead put the contract down one.

Had declarer covered the nine of clubs with dummy's jack, he would have made the contract easily.

School officials predict building will be completed in February, but school business manager Dennis Percy said opening for classes could be delayed for lack of water. St. Joseph township and city are negotiating to run a water line from city to serve school and surrounding area. Percy said it will be about six weeks before outside masonry is completed on building so work can begin on the interior. Dome in the center is a proposed planetarium. However, superintendent of schools Richard Ziehm said that only $5,000 more than a 1966 estimate largely because of new items such as $50,000 to furnish a new third circuit courtroom. The authority will present its request to supervisors in a Sept. 16 meeting. The proposed $650,000 bond issue, to cover $600,000 in developments plus unforeseen extras, was stalled two years by a recently-ended court case and will be dropped as too small. 'A BIT LOADED' The $850,000 will cover an estimated $796,200 in expenses and is "a bit loaded" to meet any unforeseen costs, said Authority Chairman Allen "Mike" Baker.

The authority's legal counsel, Berrien Probate Judge Ronald Lange, said if all $850,000 isn't needed the extra bonds just won't be sold.

"I think we'd be lucky if we got the bond issue through (the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission) by the first of February," Baker said.

The building authority rents the courthouse to the county which will pay $270,000 annual rent, said Judge Lange. The authority uses the rental to pay off the bonds.

The county gets rent money from a 4-tenths of a mill levy on property in the county.

An original bond issue of $2.5 million paid for the new courthouse building and the one block of property on which it rests.

Also Friday, the authority received estimates on plastering and repainting cracks in the courthouse, voted to pay costs of bonds coming due from the first $2.5 million sale, and heard a report on the authority's share of higher costs in the surrounding St. Joseph city urban renewal project.

Urban Renewal Director C. Thomas Daley said corrected figures show the county's share of the St. Joseph courthouse square renewal project at $373,265, up $36,119 from a 1966 report because of higher site improvement and contingency costs.

Plastering and painting wall cracks, many attributed to dynamiting along the nearby St. Joseph river last spring, in the two-year-old courthouse will cost from $1,535 to $2,375, according to estimates produced by Supervisors' Building Committee Chairman Robert Feather.

The authority voted to pay the National Bank of Detroit $129,496.64, due Oct. 1, for interest on bonds and other costs in the original $2.5 million courthouse bond issue.

NEW COURTROOM

Also Friday, the authority okayed preliminary drawings of a third circuit courtroom by Pearson Construction Co. of Benton Harbor. An $18,000 estimate covers only construction and not desks, books, jurors chairs, an address system, and carpeting, Judge Lange said.

A breakdown by the judge of expected expenses in the $850,000 bond issue shows:

$375,000 to pay St. Joseph for land surrounding the courthouse; $300,000 to repay the county for courthouse furnishings and landscaping already completed; $50,000 to furnish the third courtroom and nearby associated rooms; $50,000 to landscape the St. Joseph riverfront just north of the courthouse; $11,000 for legal, financial fees and other costs in the bond sale; $5,200 for electrical heating fixtures in the ground-floor Social Services department; and $5,000 for the authority's share of landfill along the St. Joseph river.

Berrien Stung By 'Deadbeats'

Unpaid Ambulance Bills May Cost County $4,800

The operator of the defunct Berrien County Ambulance Co. presented from $4,700 to $4,800 worth of "deadbeat" bills Friday to the Berrien board of supervisors' ambulance committee.

Chairman Orval Benson said bills from William Tremble of Port Huron would be checked and, if approved, forwarded to the board of supervisors sometime after its Sept. 16 meeting. Tremble's bills come from reportedly unpaid runs to highway accidents and "dry runs" where ambulances showed at law enforcement request but brought away no victims. The county had agreed to pay these types of bills.

The company, plagued by financial troubles, ended in Berrien on Jan. 1, 1968, after six months as the county's "official" ambulance service.

"We're checking them (bills) out and we are not going to bring them before the board in the September meeting," Benson said. "We don't have time. We're going over them to determine if any or all of them are our responsibility."

Benson was unable to estimate how much the county paid Tremble in the company's six-month life.

Berrien Prosecutor John Hammond said Tremble signed an assignment of account and warrant vouching for the accuracy of the bills and permitting the county to keep any bills "made good" after Tremble is paid.

Benson said the committee Friday also recommended for payment less than $1,500 in bills from Tri-County Ambulance Co. of Niles, Action Ambulance of Benton Harbor and private funeral homes. They will be presented to the auditing committee and forwarded to the full board on Sept. 16, Benson said.

The committee also discussed ambulance service at the county's Berrien General hospital at Berrien Center, Benson said. An Action Ambulance representative has proposed stationing an ambulance there, possibly with the county's playing a part in paying the rent.

"It's in the hands of the hospital board of trustees right now," Benson added.

UCF Tours Offered To Public

Program Shows How Funds Are Spent

Robert W. Brooks, campaign chairman of United Community Fund, today designated next week as "UCF Agency Week" to mark the start of a series of tours being offered to the public at United Fund agencies.

The tours are available at no charge to any Twin Cities area employer or civic group, Brooks said. Tour dates may be arranged by calling the UCF office, 983-6515.

Among the agencies participating in the UCF tour program are the Maple Grove Center for the young adult retarded, Berrien County Cancer Services, Crippled Children's Society, Boy Scouts, YMCA, YWCA and Salvation Army.

In addition to the organized group tours, Brooks said that any person may visit a UCF agency on his own. The tour program is scheduled to run from now until the conclusion of the United Fund drive on Oct. 11. The campaign, which begins on Sept. 16, has a goal of $525,557 for 54 human care services.

"A tour of a United Fund agency offers a compelling opportunity to see your United Fund dollars at work," Brooks noted. "Of every $1 given to UCF, 91 cents works directly here in the Twin Cities area. The agencies included in our tour program clearly illustrate how local dollars help local people."

One major industrial group has scheduled a tour for next Tuesday. Some 100 employees at Appliance Buyers Credit Corp. will visit the Maple Grove Center at 10:30 a.m. and the Crippled Children's Society at 11 a.m.

Young BH Man Tells Of Viet Experiences

By RAY SMITANKA

Former petty officer second class Terry Truman sank deeply into his armchair and smiled the grateful grin of one who had returned from nearly two years in Vietnam unscathed.

Truman, 21, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Lois Truman, at 273 Morton avenue, Benton Harbor, returned home last month from his third tour of duty in Vietnam, to top off his four-year Navy career with a happy ending.

He enlisted in the Navy in August of 1964 and after basic training at San Diego was sent in December on his first assignment to Vietnam.

ASSAULT FORCE

"I was assigned as an engineer in an assault craft division and participated in the first attack on Chu Lai in May of 1965," Truman said. Chu Lai is now the site of a large Marine base.

"The assault craft we operated, LCM's, are somewhat like the landing boats used by the Marines in World War II only larger. We ran troops, tanks, trucks and other supplies from transport ships back and forth to the beach," he said.

Truman's craft operated from the USS Vancouver — which is equipped with helicopter pad and can carry as many as nine LCM's without difficulty, Truman said.

"In October of 1965 I was brought back to the states for amphibious training at the naval base in Coronado, Calif. and in July of 1966 I was sent back to Vietnam for 11 months," he said.

In April of 1967, he was again recalled to the U.S. this time as an instructor at the Coronado base. After 10 months Truman was again sent to Vietnam for the third time as chief engineer of an LCM. This time however

Woman Is Innocent Of Obscenity

Benton Justice Delivers Ruling

A Benton township woman, charged by a neighbor with using obscene language in the presence of children and women, was cleared on the charge Friday in a ruling by Benton Township Justice Chester Jollay, Jr.

Delivering his verdict yesterday for a trial held Aug. 28, Justice Jollay said Mrs. Frank Bovo, 35, of 868 Adams avenue, was innocent.

The complaint was brought by Mrs. William Mummaw, 842 North Shore drive, mother of a child who allegedly entered the Bovo yard on August 13 to retrieve a ball.

The strongest language testified to in the trial, according to Justice Jollay, was "hell" and "damn." He said he did not consider these words obscene in the situation. He added key testimony was given by Jim Coburn, an off-duty sheriff's deputy who was at the Bovo residence at the time of the incident to inspect a motorcycle Bovo had for sale. Coburn, who called Benton township police to the scene at the time, testified he heard no obscene language from the defendant throughout the incident.

The justice said he took his decision under advisement at the time of the trial in order to review the testimony of nine witnesses.

CHANGE OVER DUE FOR STATE'S JP COURTS

Six Political Parties On Ballot In Michigan

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Election ballots on Nov. 5 will sport "vignettes" or labels of the Democratic, Republican, Socialist Worker, Socialist Labor, George Wallace's American Independent, and New Politics parties.

New Politics party?

It so mystified Berrien County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke — even though the announcement with the vignettes was signed by none other than Michigan Secretary of State James M. Hare — that he plugged in a call to Bernard Apol, state elections director under Hare.

Apol explained that the New Politics party, apparently brand new in Michigan, is none other than Eldridge Cleaver of San Francisco, Calif., for president and Larry Hochman of Ann Arbor for vice president.

The party also lists candidates for the boards of University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Wayne State University, and Second district

(Ann Arbor area) congressman.

APOL EXPLAINS

They were the last party to file by May 6 for a spot on the Michigan ballot with petitions bearing, according to Apol's recollection, some 17,000 signatures or approximately 4,000 over the legal minimum.

"These people come in, they file, we process them," Apol said. "It's simply something they have a right to do under the law, so we take care of them."

One party, the Prohibition party, filed but failed to get a spot on the ballot because of too few signatures on petitions, he added.

The presidential and vice presidential candidates on the Democratic and Republican parties are generally well known, but here are the two top men on the others: Socialist Worker party, president, Fred Halstead, vice president, Paul Boutelle; Socialist Labor party, president, Henning A. Blomen; vice president, George S. Taylor.

SIX PARTIES ON BALLOTS: These are the emblems that will head the columns for the six parties that will have presidential candidates on the November ballot. Newest one is New Politics party, at extreme right.

No Serious Problems Foreseen

New System Takes Effect On January 1

If you get a traffic ticket Dec. 30 and can't find a place to plead and pay, it isn't because state and local officials aren't trying.

They're girding for probably the biggest court change ever to hit Michigan — wiping out hundreds of justices of the peace and municipal courts and replacing them with a handful of district courts.

The change doesn't officially start until the last JP bangs his gavel for the last time on Dec. 31, but state and local officials are working right now to make the exchange of court records and creation of court rules for the new district judges as painless as possible.

"In any changeover there are a number of wrinkles that can be foreseen, but I don't think problems will be as serious as some think," says State Court Administrator William R. Hart.

He's talking about sore points such as shifting court records, finding space and clerical help for new district judges, auditing JP criminal case records and seeing the fee split between JP and county is accurate, and guarding against the loss of cases in the shuffle.

Berrien county has some 50 JP positions but because of death, vacancy or inactivity probably only 15 are what Berrien Prosecutor John Hammond calls "active" and of these probably only four or five are working fulltime on criminal cases.

An audit of JP criminal cases — which must, by law, be completed within 30 days after JP terms expire on Dec. 31 — could cover 60,000 to 80,000 cases dating back to 1964.

Alfred L. Westol, director of local government audits in the state treasurer's office, says it will be "impossible" for his 30-man field staff to complete statewide audits in 30 days, but he feels no records will be "tied up" in an audit which could stretch months into 1969.

This may mean some JPs may wait months until an audit is finished to collect the balance of fees due them from the county.

Hart says it's "possible that at the present time some cases are lost, that we don't know about... in JP hands."

Adds Hammond: "Many times JPs, as a practical matter, try to hold onto their records until the records have been audited. But we can't bring the judicial system grinding to a halt... and some arrangement will have to be worked out so the person who's gotten a traffic ticket Dec. 30 can find a place to pay it in January."

Hart, who makes recommendations to the Michigan Supreme court on lower court operations, is giving "serious consideration" to a plan having JPs turn over most of their inactive but pending criminal cases to a representative of district courts on Nov. 30.

This would leave fewer cases to be shifted to district courts when JPs phase out on Dec. 31. Westol says the state attorney general has been asked to rule on the range of fees, about $1 to $2, due JPs for incomplete criminal cases on which they've acted.

Hopefully by Nov. 30 and possibly Oct. 30 the Michigan Supreme court will have statewide rules for the operation of district courts.

Candidates for district judge in Berrien county have met. Hammond said to smooth out problems such as quarters for new courts and new-court personnel.

So have various committees of the Berrien board of supervisors, he said.

Clark Executive Will Speak To Cass Club

4-Wheelers Will Race On Sunday

The Twin City 4-Wheelers Association has announced that it is sponsoring races Sunday on a sand course north of the Twin Cities in Van Buren county.

According to H. L. Briney, secretary of the association, the races will be held on a half-mile sand course located near the intersection of county road 376 and I-196, three and a half miles south of the Covert exit.

Briney said 4-wheelers (four wheel drive vehicles) will be divided into five classes: A — modified V type, B — V type under 90" wheelbase, C — V type over 90" wheelbase, D — inline 100 to 150 hp., and E — inline under 100 hp. Seat belts are required and roll bars recommended.

Registration reportedly begins at noon and the first run will begin at 1 p.m. There is a $1 registration fee.

Four File For SMC Board Seats

Only Incumbents Decide To Run

DOWAGIAC — Four incumbent members of the Southwestern Michigan college board of trustees will be the only candidates for four positions on the board in the general election Nov. 5.

The deadline for the filing of nominating petitions was 4 p.m. Friday.

Two positions on the board are for six-year terms and two are for four-year terms.

The four-year terms were created when two board positions were left vacant and filled by appointment.

Those who have filed the petitions are the Rev. William P.D. O'Leary and Mrs. Barbara Wood Hunziker for the six-year terms and A.C. Kairis and Dale Lyons for the four-year terms.

The Rev. O'Leary and Mrs. Hunziker have both been members of the board since the college was established four years ago. Mrs. Hunziker has also served as the board secretary for four years.

Dale Lyons was appointed to the board when Dan Brosnan resigned his position. A.C. Kairis was appointed to the board to fill the vacancy left by the death of Fred Hayden.

The SMC district includes Cass county and Keeler and Hamilton townships of Van Buren county.

Ten Men, One Woman Seek Seats

Fear Of Shortage Melts At Deadline

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Early fears of a shortage of candidates for two seats opening on the Lake Michigan college board of trustees apparently contributed to a near flood of 11 contenders who were at starting gate today.

Ten men and one woman, all of them residents of the twin cities and representing a considerable wealth of talent, will view for the two trusteeships at the general election Nov. 5.

The last of the 11 petitions, all of which were filed in the last two days, was submitted just before the closing deadline at 4 p.m. Friday with County Clerk Forrest Kesterke.

The candidates are: Wayne Anderson, Donald Eppelheimer, Ted W. Miller, Earl H. Place, and Mrs. Shannon Madison, all of St. Joseph; Pete Jackson, Jr., David G. Collins, Charles P. Williamson, John R. Wood, Dr. Samuel Gould, and Franklin Hageman, all of Benton Harbor.

The winners in November will be the two getting the highest number of votes.

They will succeed Trustees Harry Nye of Royalton township and Dr. A.F. Bliesmer of St. Joseph, both of whom declined to seek reelection.

A brief description of each candidate follows:

Earl H. Place, 62, is the retired former superintendent of the St. Joseph school system and resides at 2211 Pioneer road, St. Joseph. He holds a bachelor's degree from Hillsdale college and a master's degree from University of Michigan and has done other post-graduate study at four universities. He has been in the educational field 36 years, the last 31 of which were in school administration. He and his wife, Elizabeth, are parents of three grown children.

Donald L. Eppelheimer, 46, is regional vice president of the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan, working out of the bank's Berrien Springs branch. Holding a bachelor's and master's degree from Michigan State University, he spent 14 years with the MSU Extension Service including one year as head of the Berrien County Extension service. He entered banking eight years ago and has spent the last nine years in Berrien county. He lives at 3100 Ridgeview, St. Joseph, with his wife, Mary, and three children.

David G. Collins, 51, of 1155 Miami road, Benton Harbor, is sales manager of Covell Manufacturing Co. He holds a master's degree in business administration from Harvard university, and has lived in Berrien county for the past three years. He and his wife, Jane, are parents of three children.

Franklin C. Hageman, 35, is vice president and co-owner of National Mobile Concrete Corp. of Niles, which specializes in pouring concrete for construction of atomic power plants around the country. His residence is at 2291 Russell road, Wayne E. Anderson, 25, of 528 Winchester avenue, St. Joseph, is the youngest of all the candidates, and feels that a younger outlook might contribute to the communication between the board and the students. A cost estimator for Industrial Rubber Goods division, he attended Lake Michigan college (then Benton Harbor Community college) one year as a day student and since has taken a number of night courses at LMC. He is a lifelong resident of Berrien county and he and his wife, Patricia, are parents of two children.

Charles T. Williamson, 27, is the second youngest candidate and also feels the board of trustees needs some more youthful influence. An auditor for Whirlpool Corp for the past year, he has worked as a controller and for a public accounting firm, and was an instructor at Wright State university, Dayton, O., and at University of Cincinnati for 1 1/2 years. He holds a master's degree from the U. of Cincinnati. He lives at 2090 Fairplain avenue, Benton Harbor, with his wife, Ann, and one son.

Mrs. Shannon (Ruth) Madison, 40, of 2900 Morton avenue, St. Joseph, is the lone woman among the candidates. A housewife and mother of five children, she also has a busy schedule in community work, and last year taught third grade at Bard school fulltime. Mrs. Madison is a home economics graduate of Samuel Huston college, Austin, Tex., receiving her degree cum laude. She said she particularly would like to represent two minority groups not represented sufficiently on the board — the female sex and the black community.

Ted W. Miller, 38, is director of industrial relations for the St. Joseph division of Whirlpool Corp. As chairman of the Industrial Management Training program in the county, he has worked closely with LMC in administration of a training program conducted through the college for over 800 students from industry each year. He is a graduate of College of Wooster (Ohio) and has a master's degree from Case Western Reserve university. He and his wife, Sanka, live at 4198 Valley View drive, St. Joseph, with their four children.

John K. Wood, 59, is treasurer and senior vice president for finance of Clark Equipment Co. and has been with that firm since 1953. A graduate of Ohio State university, he also attended St. Johns Law school in Brooklyn, N.Y., and holds the designation of certified public accountant. He lives at 1088 Point O'Woods drive, Benton Harbor, with his wife, Mary.

COVERT $500 Haul From Home

COVERT — State police at South Haven said they were called yesterday to investigate a burglary of a rural Covert home where over $500 in items was taken.

Ernestine Spencer told police she returned to her home on M-140, south of Covert, after being away all summer, to find the front door open and the house ransacked. She said a sewing machine, movie camera, projector and screen, a record player, chain saw and shadow box were among the missing items.

Dr. Samuel H. Gould, 46, is a pediatrician with offices at 1850 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, and has practiced here the past 11 years. He did his undergraduate study at State University of Iowa and won his medical degree at John Hopkins university. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics. He lives at 547 Wagner court with his wife, June, and their four children.

The students reportedly were then asked to write a theme on the sensation they experienced.

The incident was one of several examples of modern teaching methods at the Madison Heights Lamphere School District which were criticized Thursday night at a meeting of 300 parents in a Civic Center hall.

Madison Heights is located in the southwest corner of Oakland county near Royal Oak.

They drew up a lengthy list of grievances which they plan to present to the school board at a meeting next Tuesday.

The teaching program was defended by a 16-year-old girl, who is a junior at the high school.

"What's wrong with learning about love and being honest?" she asked. "I don't need books to learn."

Dr. Lawrence H.J. Valade, Lamphere superintendent, said he had no knowledge of the "darkened room" report, and said he would not consider it a legitimate part of the district's teaching program.

But he defended the over-all policies, and invited all parents of children in the district to visit any school at any time if they are concerned about what is happening in the classrooms.

"In a rapidly changing world," he said, "we have to be aware of all the changes going on in society. We attempt to use the methods and teaching materials which seem to do the job we are charged with performing."

One parent, Thomas Talbor, who organized the meeting, also contended that a group of students had been required to sit in a circle and "punch each other to express their hostility" as part of the program.

Valade said he didn't know anything about that alleged incident either, and would not consider it a legitimate part of the program.

Man Shot In Money Dispute

Granville Fisher, 31, of 335 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, was treated at Mercy hospital early today for a gunshot wound in the left leg.

Patrolman Gary Jennings reported Fisher said the wound was inflicted during a quarrel with a girlfriend over money. Fisher said he got in a car with a woman after the shooting, then jumped out when it appeared he wasn't being taken to the hospital. He was advised on the procedure in signing a complaint against the alleged assailant.

James Duncan, 30, of 408 Washington street, was booked on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after a fight in an apartment. Police said Duncan was treated at Mercy hospital for wounds sustained when he was struck on the head with a bottle of syrup after he allegedly tried to strike another man with a .22 caliber revolver.

Donald Perry, 37, of 458 Wells street, Benton township, was arrested by city police early today after a fight in a Territorial road bar. Police said two combatants received black eyes and a third had a cut lip.

Church Holds Beach Vesper Meet Tonight

SOUTH HAVEN — Members of the South Haven Seventh-day Adventist church plan to hold a beachside vesper service at Lake Michigan here tonight.

Elder Leonard Wartzkoff of Lansing, treasurer of the Michigan Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, was to be the guest speaker this morning at the worship hour in the church here.

Shulsky Doesn't Understand 'All Or Nothing' Approach

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. — For several years I followed the advice of a service which predicted a depression and a severe market decline and, therefore, advocated a 100 per cent cash position. I finally decided to disregard his advice and have invested $30,000 in two mutual funds. Should I have waited longer for a market decline before buying the funds? Some of my friends think so. My own feeling is that no one knows and that the time to buy mutual funds is when I have the money.

A. — You bring up a basic question: the value of advisory services. I have no hard and fast opinion on them and really have no sound basis for such an opinion because, I realize, I get mostly complaints about them. The satisfied subscriber rarely writes to me and then only to ask for corroboration.

But I must admit that I've never understood the "all or nothing" approach which some of these services have advocated at various times: 100 per cent in cash, 100 per cent invested, or 75-25, or what have you. For example: what does "100 per cent invested" mean? Invested in what? The Dow-Jones averages? Utilities? Computer stocks?

Any investor who has been in the market more than 6 months knows that certain stocks have gone up in price while the D-J averages have fallen 5 per cent, and viceversa.

Now you've gone from 100 per

Benton Township Firemen Called To Two Homes

Benton township firemen Friday cleared smoke from a house after food had been left on a hot stove at the Harry Miller residence, 530 Catherman street. Firemen also went to the home of Mrs. Maggie Wallace, 267 Pine street, to cut an exterior electric wire that was burning.

Church Plans Annual Picnic

BUCHANAN — Promotion Day will be observed in the First United Methodist church, Buchanan, Sunday, Sept. 8, according to Mrs. Donald W. Holmes, Sunday school superintendent. Classes will meet in the church sanctuary at 9:45 a.m. for ceremonies opening the regular fall and winter schedule.

Following the morning worship service at 11 a.m. the congregation will meet at Riverside park camp, northeast of Buchanan for the annual picnic sponsored by the commission on membership and the commission on education. A cooperative dinner will be served with the beverages provided by the committee in charge.

Co-chairmen in charge of arrangements are Mrs. Holmes and Corbin Delgen.

Parents Visit Wounded Marine

THREE OAKS — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams and daughter, Shirley, have returned from a visit with their son, Pfc. Eddie L. Adams, 19, who is in a U.S. Naval Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. They were accompanied by the hospitalized youth's fiancée, Miss Denise Clayton of Pontiac.

Pfc. Adams lost most of his left foot on Aug. 3, when he stepped on a mine while serving with the U.S. Marine Corps in Vietnam. He was flown to the Philadelphia hospital from Yokohama on Aug. 17. An operation was performed recently.

COTTAGE SOLD — Mr. and Mrs. Val Sontag of Detroit have bought the former cottage of Betty Hutchins at Glenn.

cent "abstinence" to 100 per cent involvement and are, obviously, worried. You wonder whether you should have waited longer for a market decline before investing in the funds. That's a puzzle which has no clear-cut solution, either. I don't think we're going to have a depression. The market may go lower, but then you must ask yourself: will the managements of the two funds in which you have invested be smart enough to foresee that decline, too, and a) shift out of vulnerable common stocks, b) switch funds to less vulnerable classes of securities?

Finally, I'd like to comment on your closing remark: the time to buy mutual funds is when you have the money. There's something with which I can agree wholeheartedly. Given an average citizen, with a couple of decades to go to retirement, with investable money being generated in modest amounts, I can see no sensible alternative to the philosophy of investing as and when investable funds become available.

I realize as well as the next man who has spent any time watching the securities markets that if you go back in history, you can find the day a particular mutual fund's shares were selling at a "bargain" price. But this becomes evident only in retrospect. When you get around to peering into the future the course is far from clear. That's why I've always felt that a long range, dollar-cost averaging, monthly, program for acquiring mutual funds is a sensible plan; in fact, is one of the prime attractions of mutual fund investing.

Burned Out Family Needs Help

Home Destroyed At New Buffalo

NEW BUFFALO — A plea for clothing, linens, bedding, dishes pots and pans and furniture has been made by the J.R. Webb family of 220 West Clay Street, New Buffalo, whose home was destroyed by fire early Friday morning.

The couple and their five children, ranging from under one year to 10 years were left with only the clothes they were wearing at the time of the fire.

They are presently staying at the home of a married daughter, Jerry May Hicks, 107 North Whittaker street, New Buffalo, Apartment 3.

Articles for the family may be left at the home of Mrs. Webb's mother, Mrs. Robert Jones, Jr., 404 East Buffalo street, New Buffalo. Phone 469-3165.

Clothing in the following sizes are needed: girl's clothes, size 3 and 12; woman's sizes 24 1/2; two boys' size 4, husky pants in a boy's size 12; boys size shirts 14-16; men's shirts 18 1/2 or 19 and men's pants size 44.

The cause of the fire has not been determined and is under investigation. No one was home at the time of the fire.

A neighbor saw flames in the Webb home, at 12:30 a.m. and called firemen. Joseph Kail, assistant fire chief, said firemen brought the blaze under control in an hour. But it burned out the living room and heavily damaged other rooms in the house. Part of the roof caved in.

City firemen called township firemen to assist. The house next door was sprayed with water to keep it from catching fire.

Kail said the Webbs and their four children had left home at 7:30 p.m. and had not returned home when the fire was discovered. Firemen said the blaze possibly started from an overheated furnace. An investigation of the cause was under way today. No estimate was made of the loss.

Some people make it easy for a boy to steal.

Last year 70% of stolen cars were left unlocked; nearly half also had ignition keys in them.

That's the kind of temptation many teen-age boys on a lark, on a dare . . . find hard to resist.

Most car thieves in this country are teen-agers. It usually turns out bad for them. And often for others, because stolen cars have a 200 times better than average chance of accident.

Young car thieves need your help. Don't give it to them. Lock your car. Take your keys.
